"The True Glory of the War."

The Cambridge Intelligencer, one of the most widely circulated and ably edited of the local journals of Maryland, and which is published in the large slaveholding county of Dorchester, makes the following remarks in reference to the Heavy Force of Federal Troops despotic power which a small privileged class in the South has hitherto exercised. They deserve to be most seriously and Arrival of Steamer . China from carefully studied, for their truth is not to be denied by any intelligent Southern

The white men of the South need the strong arm of the Government to lift the yoke from their necks. These have endured a slevery far transcending that of the blacks. The social system of the South has never been anything short of a despotism-a tyranny equal to any of the age. The mind has forever been Potomac quiet. bound here. Freedom of opinion has never been tolerated below Mason and Dixon's line. Men have not been permitted to hold, much less express their own opinions. A man might conscientionsly have believed slavery to be a burden upon the State, but he dare not let the public know that such were his convictions. He would at once be proscribed in his business, and happy indeed ward. Bullion in the Bank of England might he be if he escaped without a coat of tar and feathers. Freedom of speech and the press was a thing unknown in the South. * *
